

Lance

Chas. Murphy

THE 1962 LANCE represents a departure from the traditional Gannon College yearbook design. Gone are the stuffy pictures, the formal portraits, and the endless paragraphs — that were never read anyway. And, in their place . . .

THE 1962 LANCE is a pictorial review, intended to tell a story — a story of the Gannon student as seen through his eyes, the eyes of his professors, and the eyes of the community.

THE 1962 LANCE attempts to capture, in pictures and words, the life of the Gannon student. A life that is divided among the religious, the academic, the social, and the physical aspects of a college career. From the day he enters as a freshman to the day he dons the graduate garb, the Gannon student experiences a life that is unique unto itself, and will again only be relived in his memories — so to this end . . .

THE 1962 LANCE presents Abstracts 1962.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The shadows in a quiet hallway, a few seconds of shared laughter, intense moments that meet important problems, and the spiritual successes of man's relationship with his God and his fellow men are all scattered, isolated impressions of the past year. To bring order to these chaotic memories and form them into descriptive qualities — qualities which describe the texture of his life at Gannon College last year — on the next fourteen pages . . .

GANNON

ABSTRACTED

. . . describes in a pictorial essay, moments when these qualities candidly appear. An accidental shot by a photographer and an active campus, mixed well with human relationships, serve as the basic ingredients which make certain qualities evident. And they became evident somewhere in the endless panorama of the 1961-62 school year . . . Somewhere in the many subtle reflections . . . Somewhere in his memories' maze . . . Somewhere there were moments when . . .

... the prevailing quality was masculinity. These are times when a certain quiet and uninhibited ruggedness is apparent; it appears in varying relaxed poses, in tense profiles of expectation, and in direct and active participation. These same varying degrees of masculinity are also quite evident when the male is mixed with the opposite sex. An all male campus has its problems — and its rewards.

... he felt the spaces between campus walls too narrow, the tables too crowded, the rooms too small, the book racks too close and the ceilings pressing down on him. But time and familiarity blend this quality of physical closeness into an intimate and interesting world; he learns to function and feel the comfort of belonging. And in the critical situation, he can share this comfort.

. . . time stretched out; life seemed to be hinged on a waiting pendulum, and with it, he waited. The paradoxes in the qualities of college life are subtle enough; the seconds of intense activity, or the coming frenzy, are remembered long after any thought of waiting passes. He rarely recalls the numberless moments spent in anticipation of freedom, food, friends, finals, and fortune.

... the challenge came unannounced and he answered it with the quality of initiative. However his talents and resources are tested in the future, today he faces sometimes the two most difficult aspects of college life: the difficulties of his subject matter and the problems of paying for his education. Sometimes he answers this challenge alone — because he can see the necessity of pushing himself harder than he ever has. And sometimes, he must call upon the initiative and the ready resources of others.

... he becomes aware of the endless, endless flow of words. From the beginning of freshmen orientation in the fall, to the seniors' last bull session in the spring, there is talk, discussion, lecture, consultation, rumor and occasionally mature silence. But communication is invaluable. To know what others know, he must listen intently; and to know what he himself thinks, he must speak enthusiastically.

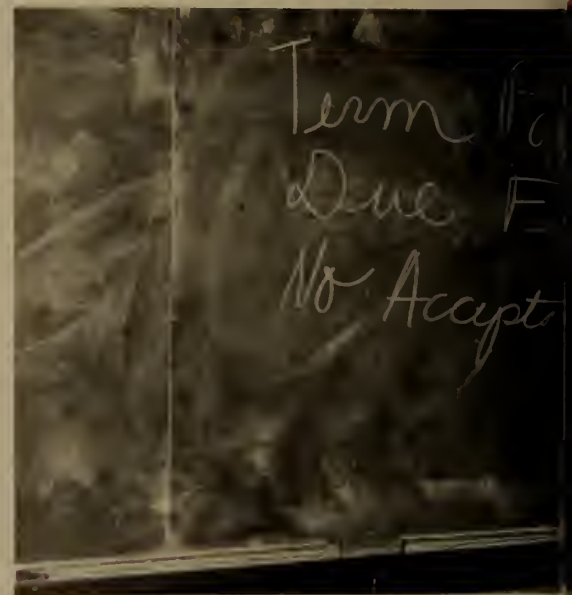

... certain aspects of small, informal activities take on a higher quality — and yield more permanent memories, than the widely heralded major campus events of the year. Even being a part of the preparation for a major event, often gave him a chance to create — give something of himself — rather than merely being a mass participant or spectator. He learns the quality of activity is in the amount of life it recreates for him.

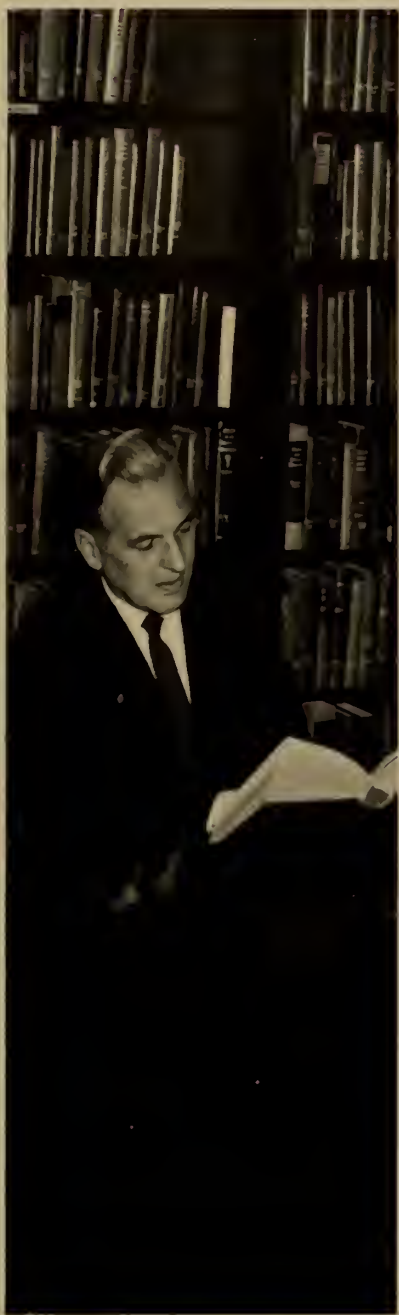

. . . a kind of frenzy was the only quality he could feel. The college year has built slowly to the terms' end; both academic and extra-curricular activities now take on aspects of frantic completion. Some of his frenzy appears in glazed expressions, anxious moments of tense hope, and final bursts of energetic spectacle. But these are all qualities of his year. Somewhere in his future they will return. . . . Somewhere they will return in fragmentary, vague and isolated scenes of his memories' recording of the 1961-62 year at Gannon College.

FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION

Founder and Chancellor

The dioceses of Erie and of the nation have come to know Archbishop John Mark Gannon as an outstanding leader in a multiplicity of endeavors. Without a doubt the most noticeable of his characteristics is that of a Master Designer and Builder. Archbishop Gannon has been a creator of dreams — great dreams of religious and cultural development; he has worked tirelessly in transforming these dreams into reality.

In 1944 he sensed the need of a college where young men could prepare themselves for their places in the world. Gannon College, the Archbishop's Master Plan and a living tribute to his name, had a humble beginning in a three-storied mansion. Since then the Archbishop has watched with loving eyes as Gannon has soared to 15 buildings housing some 1700 students from that meagre beginning 18 years ago.

We are deeply grateful to Archbishop John Mark Gannon, Designer and Builder, for the foresight and initiative he has shown in developing his master plan. To him every Gannonite owes the deepest respect, humblest gratitude and manliest love. For through his intercession we can fulfill God's plan for us.

Most Reverend John Mark Gannon, Archbishop of Erie

Auxiliary Bishop

Secretary — Board of Trustees

Most Reverend Edward P. McManaman, Auxiliary Bishop and Pro-Vicar General of the Diocese of Erie, was instrumental in the founding of Gannon College, and now serves as secretary of the Board of Trustees. Nationally known for his interest in sound, progressive, Catholic education. Bishop McManaman has constantly striven for the advancement of this principle here at Gannon. Throughout the history of the college, he has maintained a personal interest in many of the individual students and teachers, and has always given freely of his time and experience in order to develop a better Gannon College.

President

Distinguished Citizen of the Year

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Wilfred J. Nash was singularly honored this year by the Greater Erie Chamber of Commerce, which voted him the "Distinguished Citizen of the Year." Made in recognition of Msgr. Nash's "untiring leadership, and for his many contributions toward making Erie a better place in which to live," the honor was indicative of the type of leader that we are fortunate to have here at Gannon. Through his continued efforts to improve the calibre of the curriculum, the faculty, and the students, he has led the way for the college to be a source of pride and distinction for the community and a source of encouragement and growth for the students.

As one of the foremost proponents of Gannon's current expansion program, Msgr. Nash has shown that he will continue to lead the way in the efforts to make Gannon College known and respected as a center of culture and learning, and a molders of strong, intelligent citizens.

HUMANITIES

The objective of the Division of Humanities is the preparation of the students for a life that has breadth of interest and depth of knowledge. Its aim is to maintain the liberal tradition in a Christian education. The faculty of the Humanities Division is admirably suited for its purpose. A cross section of their members reveals a high percentage of experienced educators, qualified by years of recognition in research and writing to provide the instruction necessary to the formation of the well-rounded graduate. To form an effective counter-balance to these more experienced men, the Humanities Division also includes a solid contingent of younger teachers, who already have demonstrated their erudition and abilities through exceptional records, both as students and as teachers.

The production of thinking Christians, well trained in those fields that are necessary to the useful, active citizen, is the aim of Gannon College. The excellent humanities faculty, under the experienced leadership of Dean Louis Lorei, is a prime factor in the realization of that end.

SCIENCE

The division of Pure and Applied Science is a vital part of Gannon College. It aims to develop the understanding of scientific principles which are basic to the individual student's field of study. To produce science graduates with an active working knowledge of their specialties, the division of Pure and Applied Sciences presents a comprehensive range of courses to educate the student in relation to the world around him.

The faculty of the Pure and Applied Sciences Division is typical of the entire Gannon faculty. Headed by Dean Kraus, it is composed of a blend of experience, youth, and a high level of expertness. The science student is sure to leave Gannon with a sense of accomplishment, and a desire to further himself in the knowledge of his field, thanks to the firm guidance and high-calibre of teaching ability possessed by the science faculty.

BUSINESS

The faculty of the Division of Business Administration, under the able guidance of Dean Waldron, has for its objectives the education of cultured gentlemen and the provision for their specialization in Accounting, Business, Finance, or Economics. The teachers of this Division are well suited to serve in this capacity, for many of them have served well in the business world, while others have gained distinction for their achievement in writing, graduate study, and in education. The development of skills in accounting, finance mathematics and statistics, and the development of the ability to correlate these skills with sound business principles are the aims of all business students. These aims are realized, here at Gannon College, under the dedicated leadership of the faculty of the Division of Business Administration.

... Four years ago I was a high school senior, ready to graduate, young and enthusiastic, looking forward to the big rough world of college ... It doesn't seem so hard now, after getting through it.

College was quite an influence on me, now that I think of it ... All the things I've done, the people I've known, the decisions I've made ... they'll stay with me the rest of my life ... I wonder if I would do the same things over again ... Yes, I believe I would ... almost everything, anyway. ...

It's funny ... these fellows I go around with, eat with, work with, live with ... good companions for four short years ... Will I ever see them again? ... Some of them, maybe, but who, when, under what circumstances? ...

It was a good year ... after those years of rank-and-file jobs it was rewarding and satisfying to be finally responsible for everything ... Quite a challenge, but there were many who helped me ...

Those comps were something, weren't they? ... the job interviews sure did bring the outside world back into focus ... Now that I'll be working in it I should begin paying even more attention ... I wonder what I'll be doing five, ten years from now ...

I'm glad I can finally get married ...

... Been doing a pretty good job, so far, I think with my life ... I know where I stand, what I want out of life, my chances of getting it ... Seems like this year has been tying everything from the past together, and at the same time giving me a chance to look ahead a little ... Right after I graduate I'll be starting from the bottom again, for a couple of years, at least ...

But right now ...

UNDERCLASSMEN

Juniors

Since I first came to Gannon and joined the ranks of those who formed the class of '63 my life has been most complicated. In those early days my concept of college consisted of dances, ball games with rowdy pep-rallies, and week-end parties. Serious students appeared a bit odd and the classes I attended seemed to be a malignant growth arising from compulsory education.

It was not long before I found myself evaluating these original ideas; I became thoroughly worried when my marks left something to be desired. Simultaneously the realization evolved that no one forced me to come here and behold, I arrived at the first step of maturity.

Since that time I have been constantly shifting ideas while in the process of gaining new insight and discarding old habits. My outlook, both social and academic, is stimulated and satisfied in new ways, but the important factor is that they are kept in proper balance.

After passing the stage of a wise-fool, in academic terminology, I found myself with only two short years left. I have grown now and my various accomplishments are respected by the underclassmen who are eagerly waiting to fill my shoes. This year the junior prom will be my dance, and no one could be more anxious than I, for it represents to me the threshold of my senior year.

Gannon indeed has meaning for me. The familiar buildings, the favored professors and the vivid dreams of the administration fill my life. This incomplete panorama lacks but one year, but yet to think of leaving Gannon is not a completely pleasant thought. To me Gannon will always inspire the idea of achievement, and in this tri-annum I feel that I have proceeded a little farther along the road to becoming an educated man.

J. Messina, D. DeSante, T. MacKrell and M. Lander, officers of the Junior Class.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Then there were moments of serious concentration.

Sophomores

Completely orientated. Oh, high school is still a pleasant memory, but being a sophomore, I have experienced nearly all the worries once — registration, ROTC, term papers, college activities . . . worries? Not so bad. You're in the Army now. Man 'n' boy, do I know the ropes. All the freshmen ask me who to take for English.

I can look forward to that major field now. Look at those grades in this and that. Maybe the guidance department does know what it's talking about. I didn't give too many orders as a freshman in the old fraternity, but now I'm a sophomore, and there's a lot I can do. I'll be a BMOC . . . but in what activities — in just anything that gets me prestige? Or how much time should I spend on maneuvering, on doing the actual drudgery? If I really applied myself to that major, I'd be a regular genius probably. But, all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Of course, I could start really resting up from my freshman year. After all, I deserve it. I could even switch my major and get C's in that other field with no trouble at all maybe. Moderation in all things? Well, maybe.

With all my knowledge, I could sit back just a little and become the scholarly cynic. I'd be satisfied with my present learning and take pot shots at everybody else very skillfully from my own, high, educated point of view. That shouldn't be too tough, and I could get all the fun on the side I owe myself. Darn it though, I always did want to really pursue that first field with the best of my ability and really learn something interesting to myself. This is the crossroads, I guess.

Impressions

The freshman year in college can be considered as an era of apprehension. It is an exposure to countless new and different experiences. You get the feeling that you are the smallest of cogs in an intricate machine — a number, a file, a face vying for recognition as an individual. In some ways it is a difficult change, that of giving up established high-school social standing to accept college namelessness. The freshman is occupied with unanswered questions. . . . where's the Guidance Office? . . . who's the assistant Registrar? . . . how does this prof mark? . . . I wonder who'll be at this mixer? Then there are the frustrations. . . . I've got three days to do this term paper . . . she turned me down for the Mil-Ball, ME!!! cool it, it's not due for an hour yet . . . double cuts today???

As all these questions start to resolve themselves we begin to feel at ease. Some of the upper-classmen start to speak to us in the hall. We found out where the Guidance Office was. Look out world, were collegians now. To be GD1 or not to be that is the question. Did he win the Twist contest at the Pilothouse again? Parties are great, but can't wait till summer.

We've lost the sounds of "ey sonny" and "where will we go from here boys" to become familiar with the resounding "there will be a critique for all seniors and juniors . . ." G-G GAN N-N NON has become second nature. "Delayed cadence, delayed cadence, delayed cadence count . . ." always brings memories of those joyous Thursday afternoons.

We're now participating in Inter-collegiate rather than city-series or District Ten programs. This then is the life of the freshman — new, exciting, cool but fast moving, white hot but sultry. Bigger stakes with bigger chances. A constant full court press on life. Three Greek letters of success. Belonging. Solidarity. Spirit. Look out world I'm on my way to the top.

ACTIVITIES

One more Friday morning Communion.

College years are time to mature but maturity for a man means not only physical growth but mental and spiritual growth as well. Gannon College recognizes that a man must grow in this three-fold way if he is to be a whole man.

It is the function of the Department of Religious Activities to promote spiritual maturity and to provide a means of expression for what is learned in the Theology classes. Opportunities for daily Mass and weekly confession are made available to the students. Twice during the academic year, studies are set aside for a period of retreat and reflection. Various clubs and organizations such as the St. Thomas More Club, Young Christian Students, Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, have been organized to provide an outlet for the zeal and interest that a man's intellectual knowledge of his faith should generate. The department is especially interested in forming habits and practices that the Gannon graduate will carry into his life's work.

RETREAT

Who are you?

Why are you here?

Where are you going?

Twice a year the classrooms and textbooks are closed and the Gannon student enters three days of Retreat. Webster defines "retreat" as an act of retiring or withdrawing. The Gannon Retreat is just that. For three days in the Fall, all academic and social activities cease. An air of solitude shrouds the entire school and pierces deep into the soul of each individual. The Day of Recollection in the Spring is a welcome pause in the hum-drum of college life.

Gannon Retreats are unique in their recognition of the individuality of each student. Just as the physical and intellectual needs of each are different, so too are the spiritual needs. Thus, there are no rigid rules and strict regulations governing the Retreat. It is rather, a time to withdraw to yourself and God and ponder.

Who am I?

Why am I here?

Where am I going?

Scholastic Hall of Fame

The college yearbook is a report of the actual life of the school throughout the year. It reports the highlights, the outstanding, the faithful, the successful, and the ambitions. In this section we salute those who have brought Gannon's name before the public through these efforts in producing concrete proof of solid academic success. We salute those who have given dedicated service in promoting intellectual development throughout the student body. We salute those who have proven their skill in the highly competitive world of classrooms, research, and examinations. And we salute those who have given their best to acquire that degree of education that will enable them to use their talents most wisely for the benefit of themselves and others. For it is in these sincere and determined students that the true aims of Gannon College, and of education itself will be realized — the production of energetic, skilled, and productive citizens.

Basketball Festival

Enthusiastic crowds, lovely queens, elaborate displays, sports events, trophies, dancing and music were all part of the first annual Basketball Festival. The weekend of the seventeenth and eighteenth of February witnessed such "firsts" on the Gannon campus, as a basketball game between Mercyhurst and St. Vincent's, a coed Mass and mammoth displays honoring the team.

After the Mercyhurst-St. Vincent's contest Saturday afternoon, the crowd became alive with school spirit at a pep rally. The Gannon-John Carroll game led the evening events. Immediately following the game the lilting strains of the Teddy Armen Band filled the ballroom of the Moose Club for the "Basket Ball." Here amid the excitement of a college weekend Miss Audrey Schultz was crowned queen of the Basketball Festival.

Sunday's events commenced with a coed Mass in the auditorium celebrated by Fr. Sullivan. Two jazz concerts were scheduled for the afternoon featuring the Teddy Armen quintet. As a finale the trophy for the best display was presented to AIEE while Delta Sigma Phi received the trophy for runner-up. The weekend itself was not one bit short of its theme . . . "Gannon Conquers All."

RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

Among the most distinguished of our Gannon College graduates is the R.O.T.C. cadet — the young man who has qualified himself for leadership, the most responsible type of leadership demured of youth by this country. In one hand, he has a college degree which certifies him to pursue endeavors in the arts or sciences, or in the business world. In the other hand, he has an officer's commission, a certificate of authority given him by his country to command men — perhaps even to lead them in battle.

This authority to command is not lightly given, nor is it easy for the individual to attain. It requires long hours of study and drill on the campus, and six weeks of training at summer camp. This R.O.T.C. training is designed to develop and perfect the qualities of leadership required in both military and civilian life, and to give a young man an opportunity to reinforce his knowledge with actual practice in the techniques of leadership. In this respect, then, R.O.T.C. is the training ground for tomorrow's leaders, not only in the armed forces but also in private enterprise, and government. The pattern of the past is significantly clear — many of today's young second lieutenants are tomorrow's generals, executives and statesmen.

Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard & Blade is a National Military Honor Society with local chapters, called companies, located in one hundred sixty leading colleges and universities which have Reserve Officer Training Programs.

The main purposes of the Society are to raise the standard of Military Education in American colleges and universities, to unite in closer relationship their Military Departments, to encourage and foster the essential qualities of good and efficient officers, and to promote friendship and good fellowship among Cadet Officers. Further, the Society disseminates knowledge of Military Education among the students and people of the country in general, acquainting them with our national defense needs. With the growth in size and influence of the Society, students are now realizing that Military Service should be performed willingly, cheerfully and wholeheartedly. D Company 14th Regiment was founded at Gannon College in 1958.

Each year, the Scabbard & Blade sponsors the Military Ball, which is the highlight of the college's social calendar, and a dinner-dance which is given in honor of senior members. During the spring semester Scabbard & Blade sponsors a pre-summer camp for the members of the Advanced Corps that will attend six weeks of Army training during the summer at Ft. Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania. The Society also sponsors a saber team which performs numerous times throughout the year and has developed into a precision unit.

Pershing Rifles

The National Society of Pershing Rifles is an organization of drill teams from many colleges and universities throughout the country. The drill team of Gannon College was invited and accepted into the national organization in May, 1957. Gannon's drill team was invited because of its outstanding record in college and civic affairs during the past seven years.

To foster a spirit of friendship and cooperation among men in the military department and to maintain a highly efficient drill team is the foremost purpose of the Pershing Rifles as propounded by its distinguished founder, General John J. Pershing. This organization offers to the individual the chance to learn the element of military leadership under conditions not afforded to the average R.O.T.C. cadet. Discipline is a must, expected by all! Pershing Rifles offers the individual a better opportunity to become a man who will be respected for his clean cut appearance and posture.

In 1961, Company 0-5 was invited to the renowned Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C., where the already famous Gannon trick drill team matched its prowess against the very elite of the drill teams in the country. This is the first time that Gannon's drill team was invited to such an event and the invitation was extended solely on the remarkable achievements of Company 0 during the past year.

ROTC Band

The brass section begins practice.

Just a scant two years ago, the Cannon College ROTC Band consisted of one senior officer, one junior non-commissioned officer, and eighteen basic course cadets. It participated only in required ROTC functions, such as drills and ceremonies. Now the band is better than twice that size, being composed of two senior officers, two junior non-commissioned officers, and 48 basic course bandmen. It is a musically and militarily proficient unit which performs public concerts, civic functions, and school ceremonies as well as ROTC drills.

Because the brigade is divided into two battalions, the band is divided into two units. For the one drill period, a six man drum corps is provided and led by a junior cadet sergeant. The full band drills on the other drill day.

The musical presentations are directed by Mr. Anthony Sinicropi. Mr. Sinicropi has introduced unique and varied numbers into the musical repertoire of the band.

Blue Key

The Blue Key National Honor Fraternity is an organization devoted to aiding and assisting the school in whatever areas that such assistance is needed. Its members are junior and senior men who are chosen for their leadership qualities and outstanding service to the college. To be eligible one must have maintained a quality point average of 2.5.

The Blue Key aspires to study student problems, enrich student life, and to stimulate and promote the progress and best interests of the institution in which it is founded.

One of the main purposes of Blue Key is to initiate various needed programs around the college. These programs, if effective, are then adopted by the school as regularly scheduled scholastic and social events. The Freshman Orientation period and Parent's Day are examples of the type of programs which Blue Key has initiated.

The highly successful Winter Carnival held each year in early December has been the special project of Blue Key since the Gannon Chapter was founded. Nationally, Blue Key was organized in 1921. The Gannon Chapter was installed in 1958.

Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities

HONORARIES

The members of the 1961-62 Student Council have endeavored to fulfill their motto "to advance ourselves spiritually, to augment our education, to encourage social activities, to foster a spirit of companionship among ourselves, and to do honor to the name of this college . . ." Concrete evidences of their effort can be seen through the many activities planned, initiated, and continued by council. The council generates interest in athletics by staging pep rallies and supervising the plans for the homecoming game. It also sponsors social events such as the Friday Night Dances and the 8-Ball. Campus clubs are well-organized and functional through Council's Club Coordination Committee. Achievement sought by the members and accomplished through student cooperation has made this council the student's Council.

Each year the resident students of Wehrle Hall elect a council to coordinate its activities. Commonly known as the Dorm Council it serves as the representative body of the resident students to the faculty counselors and the college administration. The council, which consists of representatives from each floor, also undertakes to promote fellowship among the fellow students. The council elects one of its members to represent it on the Student Council. In this way the dorm students retain an active voice in student government. During the past year the Dorm Council has supervised parties for the dorm students, worked with the Student Council on various college activities, sponsored a Christmas room decorating contest, and helped to collect for St. Joseph Orphan Home.

Lambda Iota Tau

Open discussion at Mercyhurst Literature symposium

Alpha Nu is the Gannon chapter of Lambda Iota Tau — the honorary fraternity for English and foreign language majors and minors. To gain admission, a student must have a high scholastic average and must have faculty sponsorship. It is the L.I.T. which sponsors the motion picture series which complements the English courses. This group also sponsors a lecture series which features prominent professors from universities of the nation. Programs of the past year included two symposiums with English majors of Mercyhurst College in which members discussed the literary value of novels, essays, and plays by prominent authors.

Alpha Psi Omega, dramatic honor fraternity, stimulates interest in the theatrical arts and pays honor to college men and women who have contributed to the drama programs of their respective colleges. The chapter at Gannon is the Kappa Beta cast.

Membership is awarded to those who show outstanding achievement and ability in any of the facets of dramatic art. Eligibility is determined by a process of accumulating a sufficient number of quality points, which are awarded in proportion to the amount of services rendered in any of the arts or crafts, while a member of the Talisman Players.

Published every Wednesday throughout the school year, the Gannon Knight keeps the student body, faculty, alumni, and interested friends of Gannon informed and entertained with the events in and around the college.

This year the publication's headquarters was moved from its time-worn offices in the Carriage house to a new location in the basement of Aquinas Hall. In the new surroundings the Knight was able to earn a reputation for comprehensive and interesting news coverage as well as for mature expression of student opinion.

Editor Al Kendziora and his staff — John Vacek, news; Tom Uhrmacher, sports; Charles Emmons, features; and Wayne Sulecki, copy editor — spent many a happy hour under the Chapel on Monday afternoon preparing the paper for the amusement of the students on Wednesday. The business transactions were professionally handled by business manager, George O'Donnel, and advertising manager, Larry McIntire. With the assistance of Faculty Advisor, Mr. Anthony Nania, the paper's tone and journalistic merit continuously improved and the GK was awarded the All-Catholic (highest) rating by the Catholic Press Association.

- 1:00 Editor, Al Kendziora, greets News Editor, John Vacek.
 "Hi, John. What do you have?"
 "Well, Al, I've got fifteen articles by Bernie Graf on the St. Thomas More Club like 'Plumbing Improved at the Maria House.'"
 "Swell."
- 2:00 With a sheepish grin, Feature Editor, Charles Emmons, enters the office.
 "We're a little short this week, Al — three features by Fr. Sullivan. Could we run one of those and a half a dozen cartoons?"
 "No!"
 "Well, how about that full-page Marlboro ad?"
 "We may need that for the front page."
- 3:00 Al asks, "Big sports week, Tom?"
 Sports Editor, Tom Urmacher, however, is buried too deeply in his handbook of sports cliches, as he labors over the lead sports story — the shuffleboard tournament.
- 4:00 Mr. Nania, faculty advisor, leaves with his final comment, "Don't youse guys go printin' nothing insidious at the last minute, now."
 "O.K., Mr. Nania," says Wayne Sulecki, Copy Editor, as he hides the Playboy advertisement behind his back.
- 9:00 As the editors leave the office, Al Kendziora, completed newspaper in hand, comments, "Wouldn't it be funny if we lost the layout sheets now?"

The best recipe for a good LANCE is to start with two clean, neat rooms in the basement of Aquinas Hall. Make sure the files are empty and the typewriters are at their inevitable best. A place for everything, and everything in its place. Now to this add a couple of editors, Mike Balfe and Jim Maloney, and a rather extended staff. About two photographers will do, or maybe three. Possibly three on layout, and a dozen or so writers, typists, etc.

Time is a necessary ingredient for this concoction. After a few months, the spanking clean rooms are not so spanking anymore. The file cabinets are literally creaking with incongruous matter and typewriter keys are complaining of "tired blood." The extended staff has more or less extended itself right out of the office with two or three regular callers and one or two once-a-week visitors. By this time the editors are pulling out what little hair they have left . . . or devising sadistic little schemes to get even with the photographers.

At this point you add a coordinating editor by the name of Joe Brooks and a typing editor, found under the label of Stan Kiewice who find that they have suddenly become the extended staff. A little seasoning like Mr. Young, the faculty advisor, and Fr. Slater, the moderator, always helps the flavor. For extra spice sprinkle with a few deadlines provided by the American Yearbook Company, and the result is a delightful dish . . . THE 1962 LANCE.

St. Thomas More Club

The Saint Thomas More Club is an organization of Catholic students whose primary objective is an active furtherance of Catholic ideals through the Lay Apostolate. To supplement this goal a varied program of events is planned each year to develop in its members and student body the spiritual, intellectual, and social virtues so necessary to every collegiate.

In order to further Catholic ideals, the club orientates a two phase apostolic program both local and overseas.

One of the local phases include work with the children from St. Joseph's Home: the annual orphan's picnic in the Fall, the Easter egg hunt in the Spring, the supervising of the Home's intramural basketball program, and the treating of the boys from the Home to weekly basketball games and movies.

In the Spring, the club sponsors a Lay Mission Forum in which leading men and women in the field of lay mission work discuss the part which the college has in the mission field.

The club's overseas phase is seen in the Latin American Training Program, which prepares college students for eventual work in Mexico. This ideal has been realized in the past year. Two 1961 electrical engineering graduates have been sent by the program to teach in the boys high school in Merida, Yucatan, Mexico.

The club has its own training center, "The Maria House." There are nine members living at the Maria House this year. They plan to go down to Yucatan either by next summer or after graduation, for a period of two years. The present training program in the Maria House consists of daily Mass, meditation and spiritual reading, classes in the Spanish language, rosary in Spanish, Spanish being spoken at the meals, and classes two nights a week in Mexican history, culture, and other various topics necessary for a good understanding of the Latin people.

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine program was initiated on Gannon's campus in 1957. College CCD units are chiefly concerned with recruiting college students to be either teachers, fishers, or helpers in the CCD movement. The teachers bring religious instructions to local students attending public schools. Fishers seek out those who want to know more about the Faith. Valuable assistance is provided by the helpers.

On our campus the teachers program is the most developed. Twenty-five Gannon men are currently teaching local high schools. With increased co-operation from Villa Maria and Mercyhurst membership in CCD has increased steadily over the years.

A CCD Inter-Collegiate Day, sponsored by the three colleges, sparked the fall semester. Its purpose was to foster teaching and initiate fisher and helper divisions on the college level. Ray St. John, a prominent CCD man from Greenville, Pa., was the featured speaker. Workshops on the various CCD programs were conducted, and the adults present clearly indicated that they backed the college CCD all the way. The participants derived many worthwhile ideas from this undertaking, and in general the Day was very successful.

Mr. St. John took part in many informal discussions with the students after the formal program ended.

American Institute of Electrical Engineers

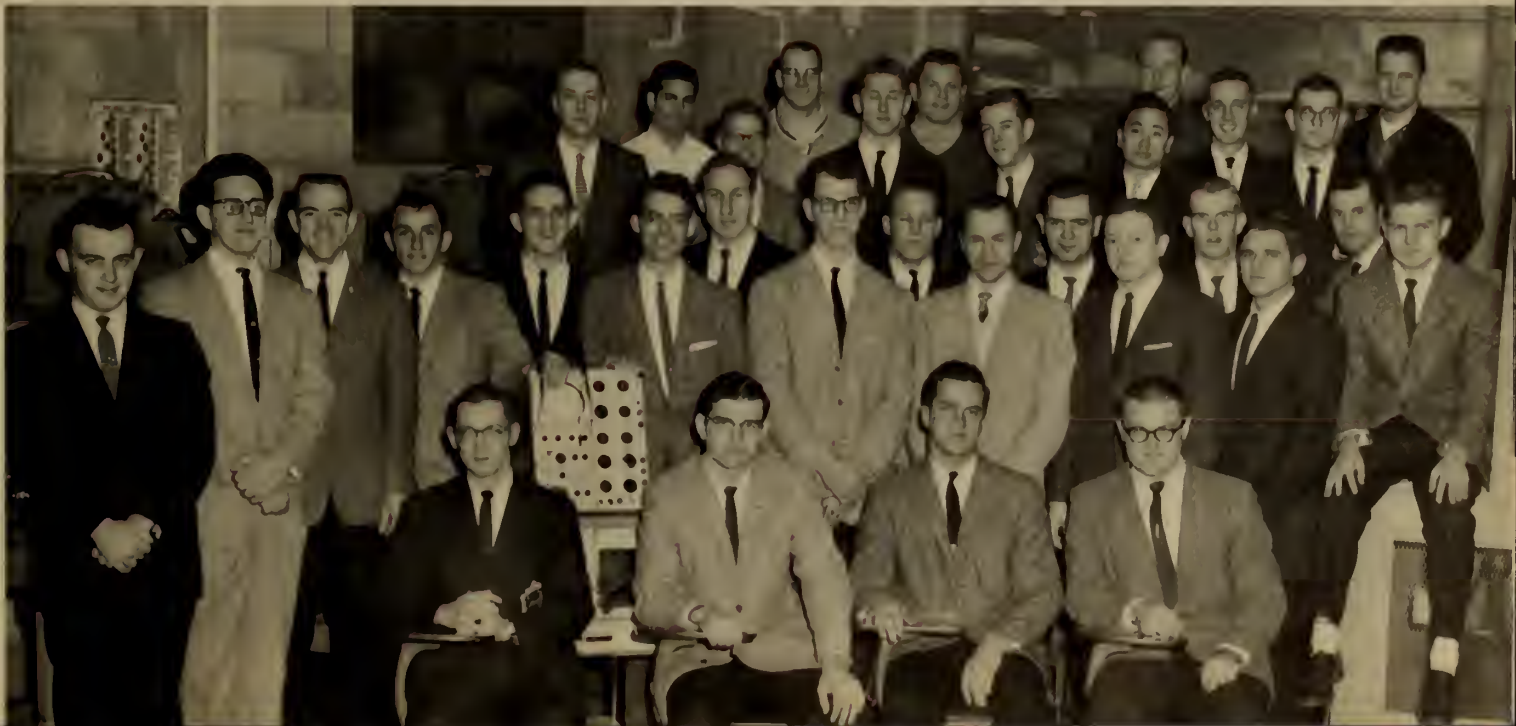

The Gannon College Chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, open to all students majoring in Engineering, Mathematics, or Physics, is primarily a professional organization. The club sets up tours of area plants that would be of interest to the members. Being named the "Most Active Club on Campus" last fall, with a membership of eighty students, it is now one of the largest organizations at Gannon. Under the leadership of its officers Jack Zimmer, John Linz, Ron Wisinski, Jim Freeman and Faculty Advisor, Mr. Jerry Selvaggi, more elaborate activities are being planned for the future.

Gannon Electrical Engineering students are given important contact with the industries for which they are preparing to enter by this organization. By close association with practicing engineers in their field, students receive invaluable preparation for future positions by learning how to put theory into practice.

International Relations Club

The International Relations Club of Gannon College is affiliated with the International Relations Clubs of America. Its prime function at Gannon College is to produce annually a Mock United Nations General Assembly which draws area high school students from three different states. Some 500 students participate in this action held in the Spring of each year. The I.R.C. is one of the most dynamic student groups of the institution. Affiliated with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, the college organization participates actively in regional and sub-regional meetings sponsored by the parent-organization. It also sponsors mock elections, and serves as a practical information center for the Political Science Students.

The Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers is an organization which was established at Gannon in order to give the engineering students an opportunity to meet with professional men in their field. Students get practical views of their future work by participating with members of the National Society of Professional Engineers at meetings, social events, and field trips. Gannon's branch of the PSPE also works in conjunction with other professional engineering groups in its effort to provide a link between its members and practicing engineers. Through this organization the students make many valuable contacts with professional men who are willing to help them to plan their careers.

Mr. Edward Lamb of Erie made possible the development of the Gannon College Student Investment Trust, when, in 1952 he donated $2,500 for the purpose of giving students practical experience in dealing with the New York Stock Exchange. For the next four years consecutively, Mr. Lamb made four additional $2,500 donations raising the total amount to $12,500.

The Trust, under the supervision of Mr. Ernest Wright, discusses the desirability of buying and selling many different stocks; it enables its members to become somewhat familiar with the field of investment and to begin making financial analysis of stock fluctuations.

As of October 1961, the Student Investment Trust portfolio of stock had a market value of $28,000. Thus, through investing and reinvesting the club has been able to more than double its original assets. The club has stock in many different industries. Among them are drugs, aviation, electronics, oil, electrical appliances, and the food industry.

The S.I.T. also awards scholarships each year to students in Business Administration who show academic promise and are in need of financial assistance.

The purpose of the student P.S.E.A. is to provide the students with professional background and experiences. The Spanish Club of Gannon College was founded in 1948 by Eron de Leon Soto, Faculty Advisor. Its purpose is to provide an intermediate system for conversation and a cultural study of the Spanish language, at the same time increasing the interest in Spanish-American relations.

This organization is as much social as it is cultural, frequently showing movies for its members and guests, in co-operation with the local International Institute.

The big attraction of the Spanish Club is the annual observation of Pan-American week. Banquets, Latin-American songs, and other entertainment take place during this week, participated in by all Spanish societies.

"Voices in Song"

The voices of men blended in beautiful harmony have always been a traditional part of college life. Nothing is more expressive of the good fellowship of student life than singing together. Carrying on this tradition at Gannon are the men of the Glee Club. Good singing demands rehearsal time. It is only the generosity of the members of Gannon's Glee Club, who are willing to make the sacrifices in time and effort that such good singing requires, and that have contributed to the recent success of the club. The primary purpose of the Glee Club here at Gannon is to sing for school functions such as Parent's Day and Convocation Day. The Glee Club also presents programs at Christmas and in the Spring.

YCS

The Y.C.S. (Young Christian Students) of Gannon College are members of the International Movement of the same name. It is a specialized movement of the lay apostolate which tries to transform the student environment into a more fully Christian one, and to enhance the spiritual formation of its members through Catholic Action.

Meetings of groups of four to seven men and a chaplain begin with a brief discussion of Sacred Scripture and the liturgy. The rest of the meeting is termed the Social Inquiry, which, in order to accomplish its purpose, uses the three-step process of observing the existing situation in the environment, judging this situation in the light of Christ's teachings, and acting upon group decisions which are carried out by all the members in an effort to make the situation more Christian. Thus the students take on responsibility for their environment.

Student Union Committee

As the college students in the Erie area continue their every day struggle with academics, and are constantly frustrated with tests, term papers, and essays, a haven for rest, relaxation, and relief from school life is a refreshing diversion.

The Student Union provides such an atmosphere. Set in a collegiate environment, it allows students to relax, enjoy themselves, and get away from the grind of every day studies. This year's Student Union Committee, composed of members from St. Vincent's, Mercyhurst, Villa Maria, Gannon, is determined to continue to make the Union just such a place. Theirs is the task of maintaining the recreational facilities of the Union, making them available to the students, and providing for all replacements and repairs that become necessary.

Debate

The newly formed Gannon College Debate Society strives to stimulate in students an interest in current controversial subjects, to develop their ability to think logically, to research extensively, and to express clearly and concisely in the speaker's platform their findings. As a member of the Debating Association of Pennsylvania Colleges, it also affords participants opportunities to meet students of other colleges on an intellectual level.

The Gannon Red Cross Council is an organization established with a two-fold purpose. The main purpose is to benefit the community. This is achieved by active student participation in various programs offered by the Red Cross. The second purpose is to benefit the student by broadening his views on the importance of community organization.

The Council also organizes clubs and groups at Gannon to entertain and assist veterans and orphans in the greater Erie area. In addition, the Council aids the local Red Cross Chapter by providing personnel needed to perform its many and varied functions.

This has been done through the efforts and under the guidance of Fathers Speice and Susa, two directors who have completely revised the organization.

Members in the organization participate in many activities, including hiking, skiing, tobogganing, and ice skating. These activities take place for the most part at Camp Notre Dame, where GOAC has obtained a cabin.

In addition to their outdoor activities, GOAC also takes part in the intramural sports program on campus.

Delta Sigma Phi

Delta Sigma Phi international social fraternity aspires to create an atmosphere of close and sincere fellowship which is so valuable to the development of a well-balanced collegian. The Fraternity proposes to supplement the formal education of college men with the valuable experience of learning to live with others and the opportunity to develop the important qualities of personal responsibility and leadership. Delta Sigma Phi was founded in 1899 at the city college of New York. The Gamma Rho Chapter was organized at Gannon in 1953; it was the first fraternity on campus. The Delta Sigs hold their annual Fall Weekend, the Carnation Ball, and many other parties throughout the year. They also take very active and successful part in intramural sports. As a part of their National "Engineered Leadership" Program the Delta Sigs have sponsored a series of lectures by faculty members from various departments of the College.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Tau Kappa Epsilon is the largest social fraternity in the world. At Gannon College, it is represented by the Delta Chi Chapter, founded in 1954. It is the largest fraternity on the Campus, having at present sixty-four members. TKE has as its main purpose the academic advancement of the individual by requiring a 2.5 over-all average among its members which is well above the minimum requirements.

Some of the TKE's recent accomplishments include the presentation of highly successful concerts, the donation of the American flag to the gym, the hanging of a large basketball schedule-board on the front of the lawn of the school, and the construction of large displays to advertise the Winter Carnival.

Aside from this, the fraternity has a standing policy of building school spirit by encouraging its members to participate in school functions and by working, as a group, to promote the activities of the Gannon Campus.

ALPHA PHI DELTA

The Beta Rho Chapter of Alpha Phi Delta was initiated at Gannon in November of 1959. The membership of the fraternity is small and is meant to remain small. It is the belief of the "brothers" that small organizations give to its members individuality and the opportunity for each member to use his talents and to develop real bonds of friendship among the "brothers." For it is only in a small fraternity that brotherhood in the true sense can be realized. In this sense Alpha Phi Delta is restrictive, membership is an honor and high scholastic standards must be met.

Looking forward to a good season.

Pi Kappa Alpha Colony

The Pi Kappa Alpha Colony is the newest addition to the Greek societies on the Gannon Campus. Formed by ten Gannon men in May 1960 as Alpha Kappa Pi Local Fraternity they were made a Pi Kappa Alpha Colony on February 3, 1962 by an inspection team from nearby chapters at Case, Pitt, and Carnegie Tech. The Colony has an active membership of 23 men.

Even though Pi Kappa Alpha Colony is a social fraternity the Brothers strive principally for an academic goal while being a service to Gannon College. A few of the services include the printing of a semesterly combination desk blotter and scholastic calendar, distribution of ashtrays, and painting every room in Gannon's Annex plus many others.

At present, Pi Kappa Alpha Colony is enjoying the faculty advisorship of Captain Ludie Kinney and Mr. Richard Herbstritt. The Colony's Chaplain is Father Howard Niebling.

BASKETBALL

This past year will long be remembered by Gannon followers as the year the school's basketball renaissance got its start.

A new coach, new players, new spirit . . . these ingredients spelled out the revival of the cage sport here at Gannon. George Hesch, himself a former Knight star, took over the head coaching position on the sudden retirement of Ed McCluskey.

Although young and, as some people said, inexperienced, the Knights tore out and won nine of the first ten games.

The second half of the season found its rough spots but the team still compiled a tremendous record, which is not bad for an 'inexperienced' team.

The crowning point of the season came when the Knights received a bid to compete in the NCAA small college post-season tournament, at Akron, Ohio. The results of that tournament are not known at this printing.

Nobody could be singled as the one star on the Gannon team this year. They all have been stars. While Alford, Lawson, Byrnes, Gaeta, Lott, Bodnar, Ward and Stih played most of the varsity games, other players such as Kuster, Hauck, Andrews, Carroll and Mauro all contributed to the success of the team.

In the following pages, six games will be reviewed, which brought both joy and sorrow to Gannon. These six are reminiscent of actions brought to thousands of local fans by the colorful and talented, GANNON GOLDEN KNIGHTS.

CHEERLEADERS

The sometimes rabid Gannon cheering section was led this year by five sprightly lasses from Mercyhurst and five dashing cavaliers from Gannon. Initially this lively troupe was faced with the task of overcoming the antipathy of past seasons, but the combination of infectious new cheers, sparkling execution, and the thrilling performance of this year's Golden Knights brought on a rash of exuberant cheering that sometimes threatened to disrupt the process of the law next door.

Mercyhurst's representatives on this year's squad are: Sandy MacDonald, Sue Bye, Bonnie McGaugh, Laurel Ann Tarby and Joan Warnoch. The Gannon men are: Rich "Chico" DiCicco, Gene Hoge, Brent Carsen, Tommy Charles and Jim Crane.

Texas Southern

Alford High — 25

Gannon 88 — Texas Southern 72: Already having won six of their first seven starts, the glittering Knights were faced with a mountainous task with Texas Southern University.

The Texans were tall, and then some. But to the touring visitors, Gannon must have looked a little bigger.

Although down by five points at intermission, the locals put on a sensational scoring exhibition midway thru the second half, which broke the game wide open.

Tied 49 all with 13:40 to play, the hot-handed Knights ripped off a 19-2 lead that left Texas Southern wondering. L. C. Snow hit for his teams lone bucket during this time.

When it was all over, Gannon had tied a school mark for consecutive victories — six.

Gaeta Excels

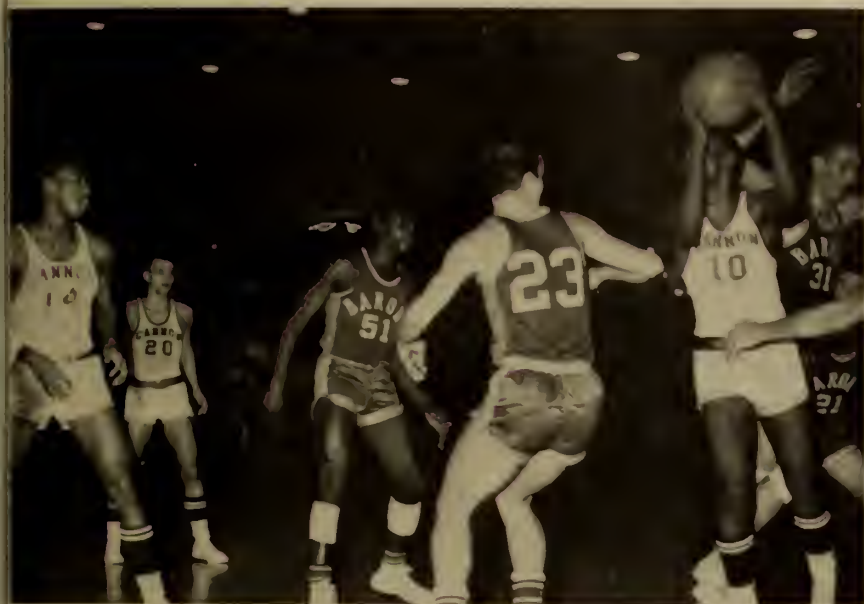

Pass!

Gannon 60 — Steubenville 59: Enjoying an 11-3 card, the Knights met Steubenville College for the second time this year. A 10 point winner the first time around, Gannon was hard pressed to eke out this two-point overtime verdict in the Audi.

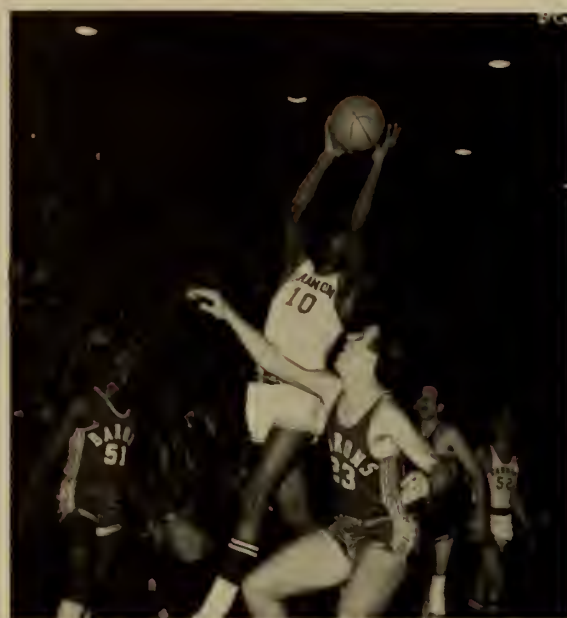

It was co-captain Joe Gaeta who turned the tide of the contest. With Gannon down 52-50 with only 32 seconds left, Gaeta stole the ball from an over-anxious Baron and sent the contest into overtime with his ensuing bucket.

In overtime, foul line ability paid off for Gannon as six of the team's eight points were from the charity line. Time ran out for Steubenville.

This gave the Knights 12-3 record and 11 victories in the last 13 contests. Better than half of the season was over. The team was on its way toward setting a new standard of Varsity Basketball at Gannon. Area schools were becoming conscious of the Knights as a real menace on the hardwood court.

BELMONT ABBEY

Lott Hits in Clutch

Gannon 79 — Belmont Abbey 58: Belmont Abbey, coached by fiery Al Maguire, was determined to end Gannon's seven game winning streak.

Coming from a tournament victory in New York City, the Abbey was awakened by St. Bonaventure. Nevertheless, the high flying Knights wasted no time bringing the visitors down to earth.

Gannon raced off to an overwhelming 46-30 halftime lead and never faced a serious threat from the North Carolinians in the final twenty minutes.

Maguire put on several performances of his own during the game and drew the rants and raves of hundreds of spectators. His performance went for naught as Gannon had number eight in a row easily in hand.

Where did you find that?

Alford — Lawson — Bodnar — Byrnes — Outreach Visitors

Gannon 94 — Tennessee A&I 84: Much-heralded Tennessee A&I came to town with the country's number 2 small college rating to show for their season's efforts.

The visitors dazzled the crowd with pre-game activities reminiscent of the Globetrotters. The antics were of little value during the game.

Gannon stormed to a lead of 14-2 before A&I awoke. The speedy southerners rallied and took a small 29-27 lead, their only edge of the night.

Gannon was not to be denied of the school's biggest win on record. The Knights fought back to lead 41-28 at halftime.

The second half followed the pattern of the first and the Golden Ones shocked one of the finest teams in the country, Tennessee A&I.

Excuse me!

I've got two!

There's one more behind you, Al!

Go get it Jack!

YOUNGSTOWN

Streak Snapped

Youngstown 62 — Gannon 61: It had been over a month since Gannon had last tasted defeat. Youngstown University came to the Audi. with intentions of doing about that, and they did.

Ahead by three at intermission, the Knights suffered a ghastly cold second half and saw their eight game streak go by the boards.

Youngstown shot an amazing 49% from the floor compared to Gannon's 28%. Finally, however, it was a 5'8 Penguin by the name of Bill Lenzo who stopped the Knights.

Lenzo, utilizing his tremendous dribbling ability, provoked his opponents fouls. He then made two decisive free shots in the final minute. The Knights' ninth consecutive victory was never realized.

No Sweat! It's all mine.

Safe at third!

ALLIANCE

Gaeta's Effort Not Enough

Alliance 65, Gannon 64. Fritting away a five point lead with only four minutes to go, the Golden Knights suffered a second heartbreaking defeat to Alliance in a game that went down to the final seconds.

Ahead by as many as nine points in the second half, Gannon just couldn't contain an Eagle Freshman by the name of Bill Mandy. Mandy came off the bench to ignite an Alliance drive that brought the visitor one point off with sixteen seconds left. Little Rich Stanczak dropped in two fouls at that time and the edge was in their favor. Two desperate attempts at the buzzer by Gannon didn't connect and the Eagles had their second Gannon victory.

Through these pages you have been able to scan the season in review. This has been a good year; next year could be even better. While a more rigorous schedule has been aligned, it is reassuring to know that a strong team will be back in the fall to continue the Gannon traditions.

Baseball

The Golden Knights Baseball team had a rough '61 season. Out of nine games, the Knights were only able to pick up one win, which was over Alliance. They were hampered by rain, which consequently forced them to postpone many games, and which kept them away from many practice sessions. Joe Gaeta was high man with a batting average of .333 with John Wiand second, with a .278. Pitcher Mark Fierle had a 1-4 season. Five players are gone from the team for this coming year. They include Mike McLaughlin, De Wayne Schaffer, Brian Guest, Pete White, and Ed Janosko.

Golf

The 1961 edition of the Gannon College Varsity Golf Team continued the excellent record established in 1960, when the Knights completed a ten match schedule undefeated. Returning veterans from that undefeated squad are Frank Sokol, from Oakmont, Pa., who finished second in the state schoolboy tournament in 1958, Dave Driscoll, former star from Erie Academy, and Dan Shipley, who played his high school golf at Erie Prep. These three formed the nucleus of a strong team which finished the season with 6 wins, 1 loss, and 1 tie.

The only opponent which gave any trouble to the Gannon squad was the always-strong Youngstown Penguins. This team, which played Gannon on a home-and-home basis, inflicted the only loss on the Knight's record, a 19-5 setback on their home course. The outcome was much closer the second time around, Gannon leading all the way to the final green before being forced to settle for a 12-12 tie match. The Knights romped through the remainder of the schedule, allowing no other opponent to score more than 3 points against them.

Based on the excellent season record, Gannon was invited for the second consecutive year to compete in the N.A.I.A. National Championship at Shawnee, Oklahoma. The team did not live up to expectations at this tournament, finishing 20th in a field of 41, as compared to their fourth place finish in 1960. Other team members who helped provide team balance were Joe Shipley, Denny Spiegel, Bob Klomp, and Dave Bondy.

The record:

TENNIS

"Rain, rain, go away . . . Gannon's tennis team wants to play." No matter how many times the Knight's 'racquet squad' repeated this saying, old Jupe Pluvius just turned his head in the other direction and let the rains fall.

This sizes up the fortunes of last year's team. Only five matches out of a nine match schedule made their way into the record books with the other four falling to the weather. Still the Knight's managed to compile a 3-2 record.

Although confronted with an inexperienced squad, Coach Laszlo Doemeny was able to mold a smooth working unit out of the newcomers. After an opening win over Alliance, the team fell before two experienced foes in Geneva and Edinboro. The squad rebounded with a win over Fredonia and a repeat win over Alliance. Then the rains came, and the two matches with Youngstown and repeat engagements with Edinboro and Fredonia went by the boards.

Five returning members of last year's first team bolster the hopes of Coach Doemeny this year. If the racqueteers learned from last year's experiences, then they should be able to hold their own against these same opponents, as well as Clarion Teachers College and vaunted St. Bonaventure.

Fencing

Implementation of step number three has made the fencing team complete in all aspects. When Coach Lazlo Doemeny introduced the new sport to the Gannon scene two years ago, interested students were able to partake only in the saber event.

Last year, with more students attracted to the sport, foil competition was added to the agenda. Still something was lacking. This year that something has been added to the team. Epee, the final step in the slow development of the fencing squad, has found its place into the team's field of concentration and positive results should be gained.

Four lettermen greeted Coach Doemeny as this year opened. Again the team faces another challenging schedule including matches with some of the East's top fencing schools, but with any luck the squad should better last year's 4-3 record.

That'll teach him.

Jim Maloney puts on the big rush.

Capt. Craig almost makes it around end in the Faculty-All-Star game.

Capt. Kimmey pulls down another one.

Football

Three league champions were crowned in the I-M Football League with the Rams claiming the overall title with wins over the Outcasts and Wayside Six. In an annual attraction that doesn't draw too many, the I-M All Stars whipped the Faculty 20-8. However, the intellectuals will be back for more next year.

Looks like a long gain for the faculty.

One more All-Star bites the dust.

Basketball

Intramural league championships were won in the 1961-62 basketball season by the Sabers of Scabbard and Blade in the National League, Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity of the Continental League, and Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity of the American League.

In the first playoff game for the school championship, the Delta Sigs impressively downed the Tekes by the score of 50-38. In the championship game however, the log was reversed with the Sigs being beaten by the champion Sabers in a nip and tuck defensive battle, 46-41.

"That rim should've been over six inches to the right."

"What's that little thing bouncing around over there."

Bernie gives it that Tommy More swing.

Softball

Delta Sigma Phi captured the I-M Softball crown in a year that saw a record 18 teams divided into two leagues. Rain and forfeitures hampered the league's success but the teams that did participate really hooked up in some wild and wooly games.

Strike three.

Let's get 'em "Broff."

"That should be worth a strike."

Bowling

Two leagues gave 72 Gannon bowlers ample opportunity to make like Don Carters, Harry Smiths, etc. last year. The Bozos captured the Thursday loop crown while the Hot Shots were the best of the Friday league. The Bozos captured the school crown in a rolloff at Berry's Auditorium. Al Kendziora, Ed Rodgers, Ed Rinderle, and Joe Zentis comprised the Bozo team.

"I'll pick up that spare this time."

About A Pigeon: A Kind of Fable

 With father's hope and families' pride,
 He studied wisdom, values, methods, data and exulted tides.
 (Creeping early, were materialistic sides.)
 Regardless: light came of labor.
 And Success.
 A Blessing and another hope.
 Perhaps knowledge will lead him to the GOOD.
 Perhaps he'll find the courage.
 Perhaps he'll find the conviction.
 Perhaps, per se, add meaning to the life of birds.
 Perhaps . . .*

*He went.
He saw the gold that lines satin souls.
He saw what power knowledge was. He envied satin souls.
He desired. He sold his soul for a satin shroud.
He hungered and he plotted with the rest,
Smiled in the teeth of fellow plotters; and won.
He soared on flanneled wings.
He perched high in a Vulgarian's nest of Cotton Candy.
He slept — Pinch warm in rationalizations.
He slept too warm, too safe . . .
He died.*

*A little salt was all cunning.
His successor studied very hard.
He wanted, hungered, desired more to be the King of
The Oppulent Perch. But it's a lonely perch of
No Communion.
No Guiltless flight.
No Peaceful night unafraid of treachery and fraud.
Cotton Candy is not GOD.
Perhaps if courage shined like gold . . . If . . .
If he added one wing's weight of courage to the flock . . .
Then we could begin, and . . .
Maybe.*

A Letter from the Co-Editor

March 5, 1962

Dear Mike,

It sure feels good to have that book in to the printers. Now we will have to see if we can pass a few courses after neglecting our studies thus far in the semester.

We learned plenty in this year, plenty about the production of yearbooks, but maybe not so much about academic matters. We made a lot of mistakes and had to correct them fast.

We could never have accomplished what we have without the loyal support we received from the staff. They were certainly there when we needed them. Certain key members of the staff presented peculiar talents which constituted the balance we so well needed.

Without the assistance of our adviser, Mr. Young we could have never gotten the book done on time. He kept us aware of our deadlines when we wanted to forget them. I honestly feel that without his 'watching over us' we still wouldn't have the book done.

What would we have done without our coordinating editor, Joe? He started slow, picked up steam and by the time of our final deadline was hard to keep up with. He sure will make an able co-editor for you next year.

In the Business Department, George pulled no stops in his campaign. For the revenue he brought in he should at least be given a free yearbook. Despite his classic letters and peculiar spellings he accomplished what has to be called the best patron drive in the history of the Lance.

Stan's "woodpecker touch" sure came in handy and was a great replacement for the "hunt and punch" method we all used so poorly. He went beyond this though and did a bang up job of proofreading.

With our constant concern for the material aspects of the book, we lost contact with the so-called "tangible abstracts." It was here that we needed Alex, and his desire for the "arty" things in life, to bring our sometimes too practical minds up to an intellectual level. His essays will probably stand as yearbook classics for quite a while.

Tom and Ships kept close watch on "audi doings" and gave pregnant reports and analyses of sports happenings.

Ron's job of scheduling, identifying and general editing of photos gave him much leg work and probably iron-deficiency anemia (or tired blood).

Jerry, Joe and Bob came through well at the finish. Although giving us anxious moments and cause to utter vile oaths, the quality of their pictures couldn't be beaten. With several suggestions, a lot of film, undaunted perseverance and a few well placed kicks, they did their jobs, the extent of which is attested to by the opening section of the book.

Your roommate Fred did a great job of riding herd on his literary staff. Coordination in this area was difficult and kept Fred on the go.

Even John, the editor of the Knight, took time from his newspaper to assist us in proofreading.

The contributions of Al Kendziora, Don Svoren, Charlie Emmons and Rick Marz added spice to pages which would have otherwise lacked class, unity and attractiveness.

John even came back after his graduation to continue the contributions of his fine layouts and write-ups.

Thanks also have to go to those members of the original staff who, due to scholastic and other extra-curricular problems had to resign their staff positions. To Joe, Ron, Jim, Bernie, Jim and John, thanks for the assistance you were able to give.

Now that all is finished, I think a final toast should be given to John and Heinrich who instilled and fertilized our ideas.

A personal thanks has to go from me to you. Your energy and level-headedness can only be termed as fantastic. I can't help thinking of you as the personification of the term "perpetual motion." I could always trust you to correct my sometimes tragic layout errors. I am sure that you will achieve even greater success with next year's book.

I know that this book has pleased both of us and hope that it presents a desirable and attractive backward look at Gannon, 1961-62, for the students, faculty and parents of Gannon College.

Your friend and CO-editor,

Jim.
